STRIKERS

Today Declare Conditions Are 50 Percent More Favorable

S. J. Small Reaches New York for Conference

NO ARBITRATION IS THE CRY

Chief of Operators Union Gives Out Optimistic Statement Regarding Wire Strike.

New York, Aug. 26—"Conditions are fifty per cent more favorable to the strikers than they were last Monday. Any proposal for arbitration must come from the companies.

This statement was given out today at the local headquarters of the Telegraphers' Union and reflects the enthusiasm which was aroused by the arrival of President S. J. Small from Chicago.

"You may say this is a fight to a finish," said President Small. "The watchword is 'stick.' We are solid in every part of the country. From every side comes encouragement. We are financially able to make a long fight. We ask no quarter."

The union officials announced today that the Western Union had reduced or taken away entirely the bonus that has been paid the strike breakers and that many of the operators were joining the attempt to effect a settlement.

Small said he did not expect President Roosevelt to take any hand in the strike, as he believed it was a matter between the companies and the men, and that while the business interests were affected, the general welfare of the nation was not involved.

It is not probable that Small will make any effort to meet officials of the Western Union or Postal companies today.

PRESIDENT SMALL ARRIVES FROM WEST

New York, Aug. 26. — S. J. Small, president of the Commercial Union of Telegraphers, arrived in New York from the west. He was met at the station by a large delegation of striking telegraphers. He attended a meeting of the striking telegraphers, where he was received with enthusiasm. He made a brief address, in which he dwelt with the general situation, refraining from discussing local conditions. Mr. Small gave out an optimistic statement regarding general strike conditions, in which he said: "We have fully 95 per cent of all the commercial telegraphers in the United States on strike. This applies to small and large cities. Thousands of one-man offices are closed and the keys to the doors are in the possession of city officials, to be turned over to the inspectors of the company when they arrive. 'No arbitration' is the cry from coast to coast."

In face of the statements by the striking unionists, both the Western Union and the Postal Telegraph companies emphasize their declarations that the situation is improving daily and that barring a few unimportant towns, conditions are gradually but steadily reassuming a normal basis. They announce that they are handling all the business offered with dispatch.

President Small in an interview said: "We have started to raise a large fund—two of them, in fact. One of these is for the benefit of the strikers and the other to be expended in propaganda work in favor of government control of the telegraph. Although the call for funds has only been out a few days, many remittances were received before I left Chicago, and, strange to say, as much was received for the campaign fund as for the benefit of the strikers."

INABILITY TO FILL COMPELS PHILA. AND READING TO DECLINE.

Demand for Coal by Foreign Governments Attributed to Growth of Navies.

Philadelphia, Aug 26.—Because of its inability to fill the orders the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company was compelled to decline a contract for 200,000 tons of anthracite, the order for which was tendered by a representative of Austro-Hungarian chamber of commerce. IMPROVEMENT IN WALL STREET

CORTELYOU'S OFFER OF RELIEF HAD LITTLE EFFECT ON THE MARKET.

Speeches of Roosevelt and Taft Read With Interest, But Effect Was Slight.

New York, Aug 26—The stock market today opened at almost general advances over Saturday. Union Pacific was up a point, American Smelting and Anaconda opened 3-4 higher, Pennsylvania and B. & O. advanced 1-2; N. Y. C. and Atchison 1-4. Amalgamated and Interborough Metropolitan preferred opened 1-8 lower.

New York, Aug. 26.—The feeling of apprehension with which the stock market began the week has been replaced with calmer judgment. There was much less liquidation and few signs, save in isolated instances, of selling by those whose margins were impaired or whose confidence in the future had fallen to a low point Such improvement as was shown, however, was largely sentimental, based on the belief that investors discounted all the more adverse conditions that may arise, and therefore there will be less of political agitation, or at least response on the part of investors to what have formerly been regarded as disturbing policies. The speeches of Secretary Taft at Columbus on Monday and of President Roosevelt at Provincetown on Tuesday, were read with great interest in Wall street, but their effect on the market was slight

Secretary Cortelyou's offer of treasury relief to the money situation had but little effect on the stock market.

MRS. EDDY

Talks of Action Which Was Begun by Her "Next Friends"

Christian Science Leader Holds No Enmity

APPEARS IN GOOD HEALTH

"Persecution Cannot Last Forever—There Is Always Reaction", Says Mrs. Eddy.

New York, Aug. 26—"Persecution cannot last forever. There is always a reaction. But I hold no enmity. Those who have attempted to injure me have gained nothing.'

In these words Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy, head of the Christian Science church, is quoted today in the American as expressing her forgiveness of the "next friends,' who instituted the recent suits against her.

Mrs. Eddy is described by the interviewer as appearing in good health considering her advanced age and in full possession of her mental faculties The interview continues:

"But, why should they persecute me? All that I ask in the remaining years of my life is peace and quitude. Are not gray hairs sacred? Have I ever injured anyone? Am I not to be left alone to pursue that mission in which I am the appointed agent of the Divine Being to spread truth and peace and happiness throughout the world?

"I have much work to do and I have consecrated my life to God. That is why I turned my property over to my three trusted trustees. I could not serve both God and mammon.

"I know that my mission is for all the earth, not alone for my devoted followers in Christian Science. I am in unimpaired possession of my faculties I can still do a vast amount of work All my work, all my effort, all my prayers and tears are for humanity, and the spread of peace and love among mankind.

"And now I am to be left alone in peace and without the bitter and unkind attacks brought by those who forced the actions against me by my 'next friends.' There is a tremendous amount of good in the world and I will not harbor resentments against those who have inflicted ill upon us."

EZRA MEEKER'S LONG TREK

PET PROJECT OF THE AGED PIONEER WHO HAS BEEN RETRACING THE OLD OREGON TRAIL.

Building a Great National Road Along the Route of One of America's Most Historic Highways Is the Noble Mission of the Hardy Traveler Journeying In a Prairie Schooner to Washington—He Wants the Road Named "Pioneer Way."

THE DREAM OF THE STAR.

[A Song of the Oregon Trail. Dedicated to Ezra Meeker, Pioneer.]

I.

A song for the men who blazed the way!
With hearts that would not quail
They made brave quest of the wild Northwest,
They cut the Oregon trail.

Back of them beckoned their kith and kin
And all that they held their own;
Front of them spread the wilderness dread,
And ever the vast Unknown.

But ever they kept their forward course,
And never they thought to lag,
For over them flew the Red, White and Blue
And the dream of a star for the flag!

II.

A cheer for the men who cut the trail!
With souls as firm as steel
And fiery as wrath, they hewed the path
For the coming Commonweal.

And close on the heels of the pioneers
The eager throng closed in
And followed the road to a far abode,
An Empire new to win.

And so they wrought at the end of the trail,
As ever must brave men do,
Till out of the dark there gleamed a spark,
And the dream of the star came true!

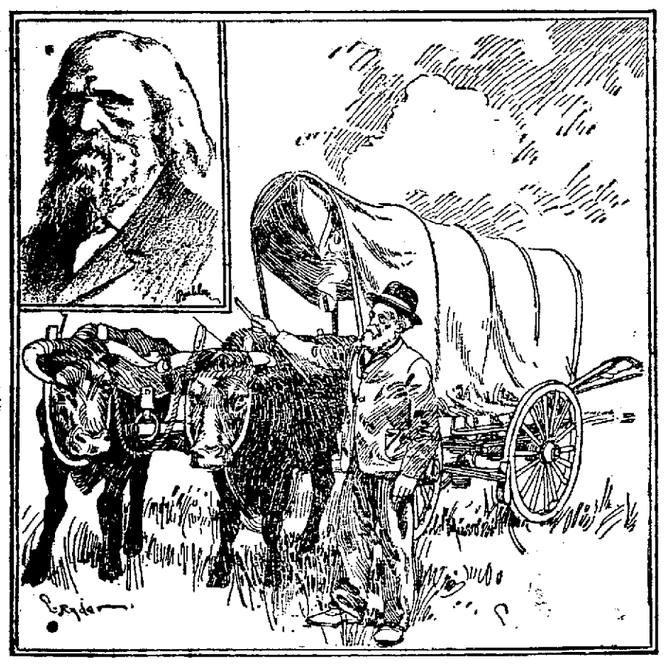
III.

A toast to the men who made the road!
And a health to the men who dwell
In the great new land by the heroes planned,
Who have builded it wide and well!

The temple stands where the pine tree stood,
And dim is the ancient trail,
But many and wide are the roads that guide
And stanch are the ships that sail!

For the land is a grand and goodly land,
And its fruitful fields are tilled
By the sons who see on the flag of the free
The dream of the star fulfilled!

ROBERTUS LOVE.



EZRA MEEKER AND HIS PRAIRIE SCHOONER.

IN 1852 Ezra Meeker, pioneer, aged twenty-two, drove an ox team to the far northwest over the Oregon trail. In 1906-07 Ezra Meeker, pioneer, aged seventy-six, has driven an ox team from the far northwest to the east over the Oregon trail and far beyond. Between these two dates what marvels have happened!

Ezra Meeker, pioneer, is a poet, though he does not write verse. No man save one whose soul is possessed by healthful sentiment could have undertaken such a trek as Ezra Meeker is just completing. For an old man of his years it is almost an epic achievement. Yet Mr. Meeker insists that he is "only seventy-six years young," and we must apologize right at the ontset for calling him old. The pioneer declares that he hasn't known a sick day for more than half a century. He was twenty-two when he took his young wife to the Oregon country from the old home in Indiana fifty-four years ago. Mrs. Meeker—the same young wife—still lives to share her husband's fame, for he is going to be famous as the preserver and restorer of the old Oregon trail, one of our most historic highways.

So that has been the mission of Ezra Meeker on this eastward ox team trek, this prairie schooner excursion from the west coast to the east coast, which has occupied nineteen months. Mr. Meeker might have traveled it in five days by transcontinental train, but being a poet soul and a pioneer still after half a century of pioneering he would have nothing but a drive identical with that of 1852, only in reverse direction and continuing right on to his birthplace in Butler county, Ind.; then to New York city, which he has just reached; then to Oyster Bay to present his plea to the president and then on to Washington for further pushing of his pet project. What that project is may be told in a few words.

Pioneer Way.

Ezra Meeker wants the government to build a great national highway, following the old trail from the Missouri river to the Oregon country, to be named Pioneer way.

"It will be a way," says this pioneer, "that shall make traffic practicable by the trackless car, a road of cement that shall be thronged by the coming generations."

Mr. Meeker left his home in Puyallup, Wash., Jan. 29, 1906, accompanied by Miss Bertha Templeton, his granddaughter. Two stout, sturdy oxen pulled an ancient prairie schooner of the type of the Oregon pioneer time. The wagon bed was of boat shape; hence the name schooner. Pioneers used to find the boat shaped bed handy in crossing streams. Mr. Meeker himself crossed several streams by using his wagon bed for a boat on his way out to Washington. A considerable part of the wagon in which he made the eastward trek belonged to the identical schooner which he used in 1852. His camp and cook outfit was made up pretty much like that of the early pioneer. There was even a dog trotting alongside the tar bucket hanging at the rear. Ezra Meeker is nothing if not realistic in his doubling back over the old trail.

The oxen were about the only modern part of the outfit, and yet they looked strangely out of date as they drew the covered wagon along the dim old trail—dim in places and in other places made over into good roads and much traveled for short distances by the local inhabitants. One of the oxen made the entire transcontinental trip. The other died at Lincoln, Neb., where Mr. Meeker was delayed for several weeks looking for a successor to that ox. This incident serves to emphasize the wonderful progress made by that part of the country since the fifties. In those days long caravans of ox teams were trudging westward through Nebraska. Now a man must wait weeks to find one lone ox who knows his business.

Interesting Ceremony.

At many points along the way Mr. Meeker stopped to erect markers or monuments. He was not out for a speed record. Usually he would address the people gathered at a point which it was desirable to mark. At several places the school children, hundreds of them, contributed their mites for the making of the monument. Here a rude bowlder was placed, there a cairn of stone and yonder a handsome granite shaft. At the famous pass through the Rocky mountains Mr. Meeker traveled eighty-four miles from a postoffice to reach the summit and place a monument. Only twenty-four persons witnessed this interesting ceremony.

Ezra Meeker's memory is perfect. He recognized many spots which he had seen as a young man. But he found vast changes. The country through which he passed in 1852 was largely barren plains, prairies, desolate stretches of waste wilderness. He found the scraggly buffalo grass supplanted by the cultivated grasses of agriculture. He found orchards and forests developed on what had been treeless territory. He found splendid cities and thriving towns all along. He found highly developed farmhouses, the wide fields cultivated by motor plows and the grain gathered by great reapers which move by traction power over the fields, heading the wheat, thrashing it and filling sacks with the golden store. For a considerable part of the journey he found a great transcontinental railway line following practically the Oregon trail.

Whizzing automobiles passed the ancient schooner outfit from time to time. Occupants of these modern machines no doubt wondered who it was in the prairie schooner and why he was doing it. Perhaps some of them smiled at the quaint spectacle, as at "the last leaf on the tree." But the well preserved pioneer, enthusiastic in his mission for preservation of the old trail, for building Pioneer way so that future generations may travel it and recall the glorious achievements of the early pioneers, the men who settled the Pacific northwest and made it American territory—this young-old pioneer cared not a whit what others thought of him. He did care, though, for what they thought of his project, and at every opportunity he told the people about it and urged their cooperation.

Picturesque Abode.

At the Lewis and Clark exposition in Portland two years ago I talked with Ezra Meeker from time to time. He was a "feature" of that exposition. He lived on the grounds in a cozy house made of a section of a gigantic Washington tree hollowed out and roofed over with canvas. It was a strikingly picturesque abode, delightfully appropriate to the occupant and the occasion. There sat Ezra Meeker, selling his books to those who would buy, talking with his visitors about the old days and the new days and discussing his pet scheme for personally retracing the trail and having it restored. In his tree house, the room being at least fifteen feet in diameter, Mr. Meeker had relics of the old days.

I never met a saner man than Ezra Meeker. He is a widely traveled man. He has known both wealth and poverty. Early in the Washington territory days he discovered that hops grow with remarkable fecundity in that region. He planted great hop yards and waxed wealthy from the product. In those days he was called the hop king.

Daniel Webster and other easterners strongly opposed the acquisition of the Oregon country. Webster held that all the country beyond the Rockies was barren desert, worthless wilderness, and made some comments on the worthlessness of that region which look like hilarious humor today. But Webster was serious. He knew little or nothing of the great west beyond the backbone of the mountains. The fight for Oregon, which meant a great deal more than the present state of that name, was carried on by the pioneers. It was waged by Ezra Meeker and men of his stamp, who drove ox teams across that trackless, "worthless" wilderness. It was waged also by men like Benton and Dr. Lewis F. Linn in the United States senate, both of them from Missouri and both able to "show" what Webster couldn't see. Linn really began the battle in the senate, and after he died Benton took up the struggle. The state of Oregon has named counties for Linn and Benton.

The United States did not get all of the original Oregon country. We got the territory now comprised in the three states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho and a small portion of two other states, but the greed of Great Britain and the dilatoriness of some of our own statesmen robbed us of the rest of it. The slogan of "fifty-four forty or fight" is well remembered. It meant that by right of discovery and exploration the land was ours up to the parallel of 54 degrees 40 minutes, marking the southern boundary of what was then Russian America. By final compromise we got the southern part, and England took the northern section. Had America held out for the whole of the Oregon country the United States now would extend in an unbroken line from the tip end of Florida to the icy cap of northernmost Alaska. Wouldn't it have been worth while?

Traveled by Men of Note.

The old Oregon trail led out from the town of Independence, Mo., overland a matter of 3,000 miles to Vancouver and Astoria. Lewis and Clark, the first official explorers of the region, traversed parts of the trail. Dr. Marcus Whitman traversed it time and again between his home, near Fort Vancouver, Wash., and the national capital in his efforts to induce congress to Americanize the vast region and secure a permanent hold. Joaquin Miller, the lyric poet of the pioneers, traversed the old trail as a boy with his father's family.

Whatever may be the outcome of Ezra Meeker's mission, no person who is acquainted with the story of the pioneers and the history of the struggle for the Oregon country and its splendid development can withhold respect and reverence from this man who in his declining years has written with the wheels of an ox team an epic couplet in lines 3,000 miles long. The trek of Ezra Meeker belongs to American history. ROBERTUS LOVE.

AMUSEMENTS

The American Stock company closed a very successful engagement at the Casino Saturday night, when they played "The Mysteries of New York" to a large audience. The play ran smoothly and was a good closing bill.

W. J. Carnes as "Doc Guzzles," was made a prisoner in the last act by "Sergeant Finnegan," Jack Warburton, and for some time after the play he remained a captive of the energetic policeman. Warburton snapped a pair of handcuffs on his wrists and after the show found the key was lost, so Carnes had to come into the city and have them removed by Captain Bell of the police department.

Members of the company tried to bribe the captain not to remove them, and said they wanted to take him to Ft. Wayne as a prisoner. The captain took pity on the actor and said he would take them off as it might be uncomfortable trying to sleep with them on.

A vaudeville company is appearing at the park this week and the acts are of a high order of merit and should draw well.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Three of the Broadway theatres opened their doors for the season the past week. So no longer will the roof gardens and the vaudeville houses have a clean sweep. They were Wallacks, with The Time, the Place and the Girl; the Criterion, with Hattie Williams in The Little Cherub, and the Bijou, with Cole and Johnson in the Shoo-Fly Regiment.

Julia Marlowe and E. H. Sothern will tour separately in Shakespearian and romantic works this season. Mr. Sothern will revive Lord Dundreary, Don Quixote and other plays.

Henry Miller and Margaret Anglin will open in The Great Divide at Daly's in August for a short season. Mary Mannering, in Glorious Betsy, will follow the Miller engagement.

Virginia Harned will appear this year in the dramatization of Tolstoi's novel, Anna Karenina.

Charels Bigelow, the comedian of the Parisian Model company last season, will be starred this year in The Snow Man, a new musical extravaganza by Reginald De Koven and Stanislaus Stange.

Clyde Fitch's The Truth will be revived this winter, with Clara Bloodgood as the star.

It was generally admitted by the New York critics during the long run of The Girl from the Golden West, that Mr. Belasco alone had succeeded in transposing the atmosphere of Bret Harte's California mining life to the stage, and that the play was an ideal western drama. The characters of The Girl, of Jack Rance, the gambler-sheriff, and of Sonora Slim are an unrivaled trio of American types. The play was presented upward of 400 performances at the Belasco theatre, and will be seen at the local theatre the coming season.

All the famous Belasco plays are booked to play here during the coming winter. The list includes "The Girl of the Golden West," "Darling of the Gods," "Sweet Kitty Bellairs," "The Rose of the Ranch" and "The Heart of Maryland."

DESIGN FOR STRIPED MATERIAL.

The drawing shows a simple and effective design for striped voile, silk or linen. The model frock was of medium blue linen, with a fine stripe in a darker shade. The fold about the yoke and the girdle were of the darker blue shade in taffeta silk, the hand embroidery used on the bodice front also being in the darker shade in wash cotton. Cluny lace and cream batiste were used for the yoke and sleeves.

Short Squirrel Crop.

From reports from the country districts it is learned that the squirrel crop will be rather short this year. Old squirrel hunters report that these abnormal quadrupeds are scarce in their respective localities. These old time sportsmen attribute this state of affairs to the late spring cutting short the crop of hickory nuts, beech nuts and other nuts found in the woods on which these little bushy tailed fellows are wont to feed. Old hunters also say that almost all the marketable timber is cut in the wooded tracts, which tends greatly to lessen the squirrel population. A few years will witness the destruction of all the merchantable timber, and then good bye squirrel. The open season for [illegible] is from September 1 to October 15.

Brown of Zanesville, was sick, and unable to be on hand. Col. W. L. Curry of Columbus, was also sick, and General H. A. Axline was in attendance at the reunion of his old regiment, he having promised the boys of that regiment that he would attend the reunion this year It happened that it was held on he some date the Black Hand reunion was held.

1813—Charles Theodore Koerner, the German martial lyrist, was killed; born 1791. Koerner fell in an engagement with superior numbers near a thicket in the neighborhood of Rosenberg. He had advanced in pursuit of the flying foe far beyond his comrades. They buried him under an old oak on the site of the battle and carved his name on the trunk. The "Sword Song" poem, which is among Koerner's best known pieces, was written in a pocket memorandum book two hours before he was killed and was read to a comrade just as the signal was given to go into action. His "Battle Hymn" is well known.
1850—Louis Philippe, ex-king of France, died at Claremont, England; born 1773.
1894—Celia Laighton Thaxter, American poet, died at the Isles of Shoals; born 1835.
1905—Ultimatum by Czar Nicholas that Russia would not pay war indemnity to Japan.

MEN ARE SCARCE

Bonuses Suggested as Means of Inducing Marriageable Men to Locate at Milton.

Richmond, Ind., Aug. 26—In the town of Milton, this county, it has been suggested that a bonus be offered for marriageable men. Fewer weddings have taken place in the flourishing little town than in any other part of Wayne county during the past five years, and some person with a statistical turn of mind has been endeavoring to ascertain the cause.

He has found that out of a total population of 600 there are approximately 100 women eligible to marriage, 54 of whom are widows, "grass" and otherwise. On the other hand, the number of bachelors and widowers is so small that the outlook for nuptial ties is discouraging.

Importations of marriageable men are necessary if the very uneven ratio is to be done away with.

Itching, torturing skin eruptions, disfigure, annoy, drive one wild. Doans Ointment brings quick relief and lasting cures. Fifty cents at any drug store.

A tornado struck the town of Brunswick, Wis. Several houses and windmills were blown down, but no one was hurt. At Fall Creek, same state, six persons were injured.

Not only is the United States the largest producer of petroleum, but it also is the greatest exporters of gasoline. In 1905 it exported 114,700,000 barrels, containing 35 gallons each. Russia, the next nearest, exported 54,900,000 barrels.

BIG POLITICS OVERSHADOWS LOCAL ELECTION

GENERAL AXLINE IS CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR OF CITY OF COLUMBUS.

Foraker Dark Horse for President—Ohio's Hymn is Century Old—State Affairs.

Columbus, O., Aug. 26.—Somehow the municipal campaigns can't get really started. The people have not got accustomed to taking their local politics in the fall. Besides, there has been so much big politics, even national politics, right here in Ohio all summer, that the local campaigns have been kept in the background. In only a few of the minor cities have nominations been made for the coming election. In the four major cities no nominations have been made by any party, and the primary contests are just getting fairly started.

The election this year will be the first exclusively municipal campaign in the fall under the biennial election plan. It is not yet certain that the plan will work entirely satisfactory. It requires the election of all city officials at the same time, making it possible to have one set of officials succeeded by an entirely new set without previous experience. Under the present plan there can be no rotation in office as there was before annual spring elections were abolished. This may be a good thing and it may not. It will require a test of several years to determine.

GEN. H. A. AXLINE.

* * *

Among the several candidates seeking the Republican nomination for mayor of Columbus the most widely known is General H. A. Axline, who was assistant adjutant general of Ohio when Charles Foster was governor and was adjutant general to both Governor Foraker and Governor Bushnell. Axline also was a colonel in the Spanish war and commanded a brigade. He also served in the civil war. His opponents are well known locally but not so well known outside the capital city. Axline's alliance with the Foraker forces will make his candidacy for the nomination an interesting feature of the Columbus Republican primaries, which will be held Sept. 12. The Democrats of Columbus are playing a waiting game, and there is only speculation so far as to probable candidates.

* * *

It is believed that Senator Foraker is a dark-horse candidate for the Republican nomination for president, in event of a deadlock in the convention over the avowed candidates who will go into the convention as "favorite sons" of several important states. He has not said openly that he would enter the list of "receptive candidates", but his friends believe a contingency might arise which would make Foraker available for the nomination, and firm in the belief that the senator a little later along will give his approval of the things that his friends have done in that behalf, they are carefully blazing the trail.

After his speech at Georgetown, Senator Foraker declared that the contest in Ohio will go on to the end. In an interview he is quoted as saying: "At one time when a compromise was suggested, I promptly said, although not pleased with it, that I would abide by it and earnestly support Mr. Taft for the presidency if that should seem to be the wish of the Republicans of Ohio. But conciliation was met in such a hostile way that my self-respect compelled me to withdraw the suggestion and resume the contest. Now each side can have whatever it can take by the sword, and in my opinion neither side will get anything except what is taken in that way."

An interesting controversy arose over the legitimacy of the prize song accepted for the Ohio homecoming. It was found that the words of the song awarded the prize were written many years ago, the name of the author being unknown. The same words were set to music by Alexander Auld and pubulished in a song book entitled "Key of the West" over 50 years ago, the song and music being published also on page 296 of Howe's History of Ohio, where it was found by Professor D. E. Rudolph, instructor of music in the Zanesville public schools, who composed new music for the words and submitted it in the prize contest for the Ohio home coming. In giving an account of the song Howe's history says the words were not original with Auld, but were sung by settlers who came to Ohio early in the last century. Professor Rudolph did not assume to be the author of the words, and plainly marked his music manuscript "Anon" as to the words, showing that the authorship of the words was anonymous, as they probably were to Auld when he wrote his music for the same words. Professor Rudolph added a refrain. Thus an old song, which was sung by early settlers in Ohio a century ago, revived in the '50s, is given a new musical arrangement for the home coming. A song that has done service a century ought to be a good state anthem. It is evident that Auld revised the poem to suit his music, and omitted one stanza, as the earlier version of the poem "Hills of Ohio" has been found. Professor Rudolph followed the Auld version. As the author of the new music he is entitled to the prize and the revised version, set to revised music, will be sung by a chorus of 500 voices during the home-coming celebration.

Following is the original version of the Ohio song:

THE HILLS OF OHIO.

The hills of Ohio—how proudly they rise,
In the wilderness of grandeur to blend with the skies;
The fair azure outlines and tall ancient trees—
Ohio, my country, I love thee for these.

The streams of Ohio that roar as they go
Or seem in their stillness but dreaming to flow,
Oh, bright glide thy sunbeams as they march to the sea—
Ohio, my country, I love thee for these.

A home in Ohio, free, fortunate and fair,
Full many a heart's treasure, a sister's love there,
E'en more than thy mountains or streams let them please—
Ohio, my country, I love thee for these.

God shield thee, Ohio, dear land of my birth,
And thy children that wander afar o'er the earth;
My country thou art, wher'er my lot's cast,
Take thou to thy bosom my ashes at last.

* * *

Following is Mr. Auld's version of the poem for his song:

The Hills of Ohio, how sweetly they rise
In the beauty of nature to blend with the skies;
With fair azure outline, and tall ancient trees,
Ohio, my country, I love thee for these.

The homes of Ohio, free, fortuned and fair,
Full many hearts treasure a sister's love there,
E'en more than thy hillsides and streamlets they please,
Ohio, my country, I love thee for these.

God shield thee, Ohio, dear land of my birth,
And thy children that wander afar o'er the earth.
My country thou art where'er my lot be cast,
Take thou to thy bosom my ashes at last.

To these words Professor Rudolph added the following chorus for his song:

Ohio, Ohio, fair land of my birth,
Thy hills and thy valleys the dearest on earth,
I love thee, and guard thee, though bright star of fame,
Ohio, my country, I love thy dear name.

Edward M. Van Cleve, superintendent of public schools at Steubenville, was elected superintendent of the state blind institution, as Professor Humphreys of Ironton declined the place. Mr. Van Cleave is a brother of John Van Cleve, the eminent musician of Cincinnati, and a brother of Charles Van Cleve, superintendet of the Toledo schools. Others who were candidates for the position were Professor J. Frank Lumb, now one of the teachers at the state school, and a blind man; Professor J. J Bliss of Bucyrus, C. D. Stoner of Mt. Gilead and John W. Becket of Columbus.

A unique exhibition was held at the Ohio State university. It was a display of mushrooms, not only the kind we used to gather in the orchard and out in the woods, but all varities of poisonous and edible fungi. There were over 40 living specimens and some earlier varieties preserved in jars, and over 125 water-color drawings of mushrooms. Fully 300 persons attended the exhibit, mostly from other points, among them many medical men. The exhibit is regarded as of great educational value, for the raising of edible mushrooms in cellars is now carried on by many people, especially in cities. Among the most interesting of the speciments shown were a group of the same poisonous mushrooms that killed Dr. Dinsmore of Deep Valley, W. Va., and nearly put an end to the rest of his family. Professor O. J. Jennings, curator of the Carnegie museum at Pittsburg, went to Deep Valley and secured the specimens from the very wood where Dr. Dinsmore got those that killed him. The exhibition was conducted by Professor W. A. Kellerman of the Ohio State university, assisted by Mrs. E. B. Blackford of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and by Professor M E. Hard of the Chillicothe public schools.

All the laws relating to mining, assembled in code form, have been presented to George Harrison, state mine inspector, by the state codifying commission. Since the powers of the commission are limited, the old laws have merely been assembled, and in some places the phrasing changed to make the intent more clear. Mining laws defining criminal penalties will be included in the criminal code. For some time Mr. Harrison has been trying to secure the appointment of a special commission to devise a new mining code for the state. Many of the present laws are obsolete and do not apply to the present extensive use of electricity and machines. The commission was urged to Governor Herrick, but his defeat for re-election prevented action. Governor Pattison never had a chance to consider the subject. Mr. Harrison has explained the situation to Governor Harris and expects to recommend it in his annual report, in the hope of securing legislative and executive approval.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE OPENS WITH PROMISE OF GOOD SESSION

Professors Pearson, Humphrey and Powell Here to Instruct the Teachers---Over Two Hundred are Registered Monday ---Prof. Orr Presides.

The summer session of the County Teachers' Institute opened Monday with unusual promise for a successful session. Two at least of the instructors need no introduction in Newark —Mr. F. B. Pearson, principal of East High school, Columbus, and Superintendent S. P. Humphrey of Ironton, being remembered for their delightful institute work last year. The corps of instructors has been well completed by the addition of Superintendent Arthur Powell of Middletown, who is already known to many Licking county people.

The efficient officers in charge of the institute are F. F. Orr of Jacksontown, the newly elected president, and Miss Kate Litzenburg of Utica, who for two years has been the highly efficient secretary. The executive committee consists of E. F. Osborne of Summit Station, R. L. Nichols of Etna, and J. L. Clifton of Etna. The officers to be elected at the close of the week's session are president, secretary and one member of the executive committee, Mr. Clifton's three-year term expiring.

The first session on Monday morning was opened with a registration of almost two hundred. The devotional exercises opening the session were followed by the first speaker, Superintendent Humphrey, who took as his subject the broad field of "English Grammar"—not entering upon his work, however, before he had expressed his pleasure at finding himself again among Licking county teachers. The speaker then announced that owing to the limited time at his disposal he would not attempt to enter upon a discussion of the subject announced, but instead would deal briefly with some of "the teachers problems"—the teacher and his work being, he declared, the fundamental basis of the republic; one-fifth of the population of the country being of school age. The great danger is that we admit into our nation and its body politic, and fail to educate them into sympathy with American institutions. The problems of immigration bringing to us the dregs of Europe, is the gravest with which we have to deal. The teacher may find no trouble in teaching an American population to defend the flag; the danger lies in the foreign element.

Another great side to the problem is suggested by the name of Booker T. Washington, whom the speaker had personally met, and found a most interesting character. Among other mention of the work of the great negro educator, Mr. Humphrey briefly reviewed a most forcible address made by Mr. Washington at the National Educational association in Charleston, S. C., several years ago. He urged the fact that people reared in the north do not understand the southern problem and cannot appreciate the situation of this southern problem. He also spoke of Thomas Jefferson, that ardent Virginian, as the first great advocate of democracy, and one of the first great agitators of the public school system.

First and last, Mr. Humphrey urged a school curriculum that would inculcate patriotism and pride in our country and its great history. Let the Ohio teacher work in Ohio; she has a wealth of material at hand.

Mr. Pearson's opening remarks were characteristic and pointed, his salutation striking a responsive chord in every member of his audience. It is needless to say that Mr. Pearson was warmly welcomed as his predecessor had been earlier in the morning.

Mr. Pearson, too, had a broad subject from which to draw his theme—"Teaching School." He announced, however, that his subject had started small for him, but that its content had grown until it filled the whole horizon. Nor do any two people have exactly the same conception of what "teaching school" means Some people think that memory work is the the bulk of school work, others cling to the idea that teaching is merely an accumulation and handing out of facts. Both these ideas are absurd. Two questions, well put and answered, are enough to determine a teacher's qualifications:

1. Has he horse sense?
2. Can he teach school?

A college education, or the grade certificate that the teacher holds, is not going to determine his degree of success.

"The gods make room on the heights sublime.
Only for those who have the will to climb.
Wake thou the sleeping angel in each heart."

If the teacher can wake the sleeping angel in the child's heart, give him a good salary, and don't worry about his certificate. Isn't that education? The essence of teaching school is the same as the problem of the pulpit: to accept and develop the sleeping angel, to induce the child in your care to slough off the coarse and the boorish and the rough and uncouth. Remember too, that the boy has his rights, that he grows tired of us and our platitudes. A boy, like a balky horse, is best moved by a new sensation. How are you going to find the new sensation to present as your external stimuli to your pupils? It's a pretty hard thing, but it's got to be done if you're going to "teach school."

TALK STORED UP IN A TELEPHONE THEN REPEATED

APPARATUS TO BE FEATURE OF NEW YORK AND CHICAGO BUSINESS SHOWS.

Device Adds Another Arm to Business World and It Actually Works Wonders.

Chicago, Aug 26—A machine that stores up telephone conversation and delivers it to the proper person at any time either a day or a century after it is recorded, is a wonder of the age and is one of the many strange devices that will be seen at the national business shows to be held in New York and Chicago this year This particular device adds another arm to the business world and actually works wonders. When a firm or an individual calls up, if there is no one in the office to answer the call, this device raises the arm that holds the receiver and by means of a record notifies the person of that fact and states that the conversation will be recorded if talked into the transmitter at the other end. A message is talked into the telephone and is recorded Others are recorded in the same manner, the number that can be taken is limitless. When the man returns to his desk he takes up the phone, turns a small switch, the record reels backward automatically, the machine begins to talk and delivers every message just as it was left. These records may be put away and reproduced at any time. The business man having an accurate and perfect record of every transaction he has made over the telephone. No need for an office boy to look after this detail, no necessty of employes about the office dropping their work to answer teelphone calls or becoming familiar with certain detais not meant for them. The national business shows where this device will be demonstrated to the public will be held at Madison Square Garden, in New York, October 12 to 19, and a month later, November 9 to 16, the show will be seen at the Chicago Coliseum.

IN POLICE COURT.

Monday a Busy Day But Nobody Was Up For a Serious Offense Before His Honor.

Police court, Monday, was rather crowded with prisoners picked up Saturday night and Sunday, though none of them was in on a serious charge.

Ben Darst answered to his name and pleaded guilty to being drunk. He was given $5 and costs.

Doctor Samuel Boekel, a Hungarian physician, had been arrested on a charge of being drunk He pleaded not guilty and after hearing his case he was dismissed by the mayor.

Greeley Ackerman, who was arrested on a warrant sworn out by his brother, charging him with habitual drunkenness, appeared before the mayor and pleaded guilty and was fined $5 and costs and sent back to jail while his case is being investigated.

George Berry was given the usual fine for drunkenness and sent to jail until the fine and costs were paid.

C. A. Wells, hailing from Waverly, was picked up and charged by the arresting officer with being drunk. He was given five and costs and a lecture by his honor.

Lafe Shultz, who said he had been working near Utica, got drunk and it is said got in an argument with a man by the name of Clark and used a knife on him He was fined for being drunk and sent to jail while the fighting charge is being investigated

John Kilworth, a laborer at the Heisey glass factory, "swiped" an article of no value from the Panhandle wreck, Saturday morning, and was arrested After the hearing of the case he was dismissed

Three Hungarians, two young men and a girl were found wandering around the streets early Sunday morning, and were sent to jail for safe keeping The case was tried through an interpreter this morning and as the young folks had gotten lost, as the evidence showed, they were dismissed with a warning.

Tell Them You Know!

You may tell your friends, on our "say-so," that when they buy a package of the genuine Arbuckles' Ariosa Coffee they get the best of the coffee trade.

No coffee of equal quality can be sold in this town for the same price, whether it be sold out of a bag or a bin, or under some romantic trade-mark. You may tell them you know and that Arbuckle Brothers, the greatest coffee dealers in the world, will stand for it.

TO BECOME HEAD OF WAR DEPARTMENT

Peking, Aug 26.—It is believed that Yuan Shih Kai is about to relinquish the vice royalty of Chi Li for the purpose of becoming the head of the war department. His action is said to be due to the realization of the central government that its position is weaker than ever before, and was also prompted by the reported maladministration of the Chinese modern army by Tieh Liang, the minister of war, whose methods have resulted in the discontent of 50,000 soldiers, whose pay is in arrears. The dowager empress has summoned Chang Chih Tung and Yuan Shih Kai to consider the alarming growth of anti-Manchu sentiment.

Cap Murray and the rest of his Molders put another decided crimp in the Nocks yesterday, and boosted their own per cent up a few points when they took the double header into camp. It took nineteen innings to turn the trick into the right channel, but the leaders were on deck at the proper time, and the loyal fans who rooted for them during several dark innings were not disappointed in the results.

Stoup was on the firing line for the local aggregation and during the entire game kept his hits well scattered. Steen wasn't so fortunate and although he pitched a great article of ball, the Licking county lads had a bad habit of bunching hits on him and shooting their men across the platter.

The first inning dragged through without a man coming within hailing distance of the pan, but the second saw one score marked down for the Nocks. Burke singled and went to second when Lauzon dumped one down to Stoup. The husky lad in the Newark uniform was fast on his feet and threw him out at first. Burke in the meantime took second, Hagen flied out to Abbott but Burke scored on Porter's double crack. Newark failed to connect with anything worth while in their half of the second, and neither side crossed the rubber in the third.

In the fourth Kreuger started the ball rolling with a hit and later jaunting down to second, scored on Lauzon's drive. Cheese Schweitzer decided it was up to him, so he connected gently for a two bagger and scored on Smith's single It was the only run that inning for them, however, as the next three Molders went out in rapid succession. In the sixth Schweitzer again doubled and took third on Smith's sacrifice. After Murray flied out to first Gygli doubled and sent Al home with the news that the score was tied. Then the fans cut loose They had been saving up a lot of wind for the particular time, but hadn't had much of a chance to show the working power of their lungs.

The game then moved rapidly until the 12th when Boe Abbott started off to fatten his batting average. He singled and was sacrificed to second by Snyder. Wratten shot one out to Mr. Lauzon in deep center. Reliable Al Schweitzer again faced the benders and twists of Skeen and brought his comrade home winning the fourth long game of the week.

A Mr. O'Brien between games took the center of the diamond and did a good baton whirling act that got the applause.

Second Game.

The second game was won right from the start. The New Castle bunch, disheartened by the loss of the first game, had to stand and see man after man of the leaders cross the plate. They tried to take a brace and make the game interesting for the crowd, but Eddie Asher decided he wanted a shut out, and he got it. The Pennsylvania boys got only two hits off his delivery.

The visitors failed in their efforts in the first and it remained for the Newark team to shoot two runs home. Abbott tried hard, but he could only fly out to right. Snyder decided to bat right handed on the left handed Mr. Limric and as a result walked quietly to first. Rats flied out to left gardener and Schweitzer singled, scoring Snyder, who had taken second sack on Wratten's out. The New Castle wires got crossed just then and Schweitzer, who had taken second managed to prance homeward before Burke could get the ball in from left field, where Murray had sent it.

The Nocks failed again in the next two innings to do the things to the horsehide they promised they would, but just too keep a little life in the game Gygli, with one man down in the fourth, got his base on balls, and after the man that followed him was down, he scored on Abbott's single, making the third man to cross the pan. Although the New Castle team frequently touched the ball, some one of the Molders was always there at a critical time and the one hat that Brigger secured after Gyg's run failed to brace the team and the second game was chalked down in Newark's percentage column.

Akron 1, Marion 0.

Marion, Aug. 26.—In the greatest pitchers battle ever seen at Webb park, Jimmy Lucas and Buff Ehman divided honors evenly yesterday but Akron won 1 to 0. The work of Lucas and Ehman and the fielding of Mylett were features. Akron scored the lone run of the game in the second. Schwartz singled, Mathay attempted to sacrifice, but both men were safe: East bunted and Schwartz counted when Flood's peg hit Cap in the back

S.S.S. RIDS THE SYSTEM OF MALARIA

We breathe the germs and microbes of Malaria into our lungs and they are soon absorbed into the blood and distributed to all parts of the system. Then we begin to feel "out of sorts," no appetite or energy, dull headaches, a tired, sleepy feeling, and often "dumb chills" and slight fever show that this insidious disease is affecting the entire health. As the trouble progresses and the blood becomes more deeply polluted, boils and abscesses, sores and ulcers or brown splotches appear on the skin. As Malaria is a blood disease, to cure it requires a blood purifier, and S. S. S. is recognized as the best of blood purifiers. S. S. S. destroys the germs with which the blood is loaded and rids the system of Malaria. It goes down into the circulation and attacks the disease in the right way by removing every vestige of the cause and building up the blood from a weak, watery, germ-infected stream to a rich, healthful fluid, nourishing and vitalizing every part of the body by its purity. S. S. S. tones up every part of the system by its fine tonic effects, and being made entirely of healing, cleansing roots, herbs and barks it is an absolutely safe remedy for young or old. Book on the blood and any medical advice desired sent free to all who write.

During the time that Sam has resided in Newark he made many Haval played his first game at the third sack for Youngstown Sunday against Mansfield. He was at bat three times made one hit, one run, one put out, three assists and no errors. Mansfield won 5 to 3.

EIGHTY INNINGS IN SIX DAYS HERE

Newark has done some tall playing in the past week. Commencing Monday with a 17-inning game with Youngstown, Newark has continued to play extra inning games regularly. We had a 12-inning affray with Akron which we won the next day we had nine innings and an easy victory. Thursday we had another regulation game with Sharon which they won. Friday, the 23d, we played 14 innings with Sharon. It was 23 innings with the Medicine Men besides being Friday and the 23d Of course we lost. Probably it was because we got 13 hits in the two games, three in the first and ten in the second.

Then the Nocks came Saturday and we delayed the killing until Sunday on account of rain. The first battle yesterday was 12 innings. The next one 7 frames and we won both of them. If you add the number of innings together you will find that Newark has played 80 innings in seven games on six days. How is that for baseball.

WRIGHT ENTERS PROTEST AGAINST SUNDAY'S GAME

Manager Sam Wright of the Youngstown bunch has formally protested the game at Wehrle Park last Sunday. He claims that the ground rules were changed during the progress of the game. It is not known just what the umpire's decision was in this game, but from the press box it looks as though the whole matter resulted from a Youngstown player picking up the ball.

It will be remembered that Bunny Pearce was on second. A ball was hit to Curly Blount who made a sensational catch of a short fly. Pearce thought it was a hit and started for third but saw his mistake and made tracks back to second. Blount threw the ball to Charley Starr who was covering the bag and the throw was a wild one, the ball cutting through the infield and hitting the fence west of the Youngstown bench. Pearce took third on the wild heave and, then a player on the bench picked up the ball, handing it to Ostdeik who made a big effort to stop the ball with his foot.

Then Bob Berryhill asked for judgment from the Umps and Pearce was motioned in from third. If the rules in the book go for anything it can be seen that Pearce would have been entitled to run until the ball was returned to the pitcher's box.

Be that as it may, Youngstown was badly beaten. That decision did not defeat them and there is no reason why the game should be thrown out.

YOUNGSTOWN TO TRY NEWARK GINGER

The bunch in Champtown are fighting like trojans for the rag this season but they are not fighting in the right manner. They remind one of the little boy who acts naughty because he can't have the stick of striped candy. It's generally the little fellow who acts like a little gentleman that gets the candy.

The Champs want more rooting at home. They have urged the Youngstown fans to bring their "buzz-saws, horsefiddles and tin horns" to the next game.

The Telegram states that the Youngstown players report that it is the wonderful rooting in Newark that has helped the Molders and they want to try a little of that brand of ginger.

The winners go to Ottawa, Canada, next month where they will compete with the crack shots of Great Britain and her colonies for the Palma trophy now held by Canada.

BIG TURTLE CATCH AT BUCKEYE LAKE

IN LESS THAN TWO DAYS SENATOR THOMPSON CAPTURES 27 GOOD ONES.

Game Wardens Hearing He Was Violating Law Swooped Down Upon His Camp.

One of the most remarkable turtle catches of the year has just been reported by former State Senator W. M. Thompson, who spent two days at Buckeye Lake. In these dog days reports of the Buckeye Lake anglers are all to the same plaint. There are no fish save the "marble cats," and for that reason bushels of "craws" are in demand at the lake. These fish range in weight from a pound to a quarter down. Blue gills do not bite and there is a most unhappy time all around for the sportive fisherman.

Some of them have taken to despair, but not so with Senator Thompson, who took to "craws" first and later to turtles. Accompanied by Ray Kaylor of Columbus, he went to Buckeye Lake determined to make a record as a trapper of the wily and elusive turtle. His sucess was instaat and phenomenal. In a period covering less than two days he had landed 27 turtles whose combined weight tipped the scales at 208 1-4 pounds. The largest turtle weighed 28 pounds, the second largest 26 pounds, the third 25 1-2 and the fourth 22 pounds. The remaining 23 ranged from that down.

The catch was the sensation of the season and according to the oldest fishermen and lake pioneers no such record has been known for a quarter of a century. The monster saurians were the delight and wonder of the juvenile band which was camping nearby and when the news spread other campers and summer visitors flocked to the scene anxious to get a glimpse of the huge animals which none suspected were making their homes in waters like Buckeye Lake.

Senator Thompson had a rather sensational experience during the catch. He had been reported to the game wardens as violating the fish and game laws. As many as five reports were made against him and finally the officers of the law swooped down upon him only to discover that he was using turtle traps or nets which would hold no fish such as roam in the fathomed depths of the water of Buckeye Lake.

CHAOS REIGNS IN MOROCCO

Government a Mere Mock Administration, Say the French.

NATIVES THREATEN TOWNS

Premier Clemenceau Arrives In Paris and Assumes Direction of the Moroccan Situation — Warships Have Coast Cities Under Control — New Sultan Appoints Ministry.

Paris, Aug. 26.—Advices from Casablanca, Morocco, show no marked change in the situation there. The troops are anxious for a decisive engagement with the tribesmen, but France's determination not to penetrate far into the country prevents pursuit of the fanatics and results in a waiting game. Meantime the state of Morocco's internal affairs is growing worse. Veritable chaos reigns, and the government has degenerated into a mere mock administration.

Mulai Hafig, the newly proclaimed sultan, who is reported to be marching toward the coast to fight French and Spanish troops, has appointed a ministry, a member of which is Mulai Sidi Mohammed, another brother of the actual sultan, who is now held a prisoner by the sultan at Fez. The bandit Raisuli controls his own region and the pretender rules northwest Morocco. The sultan is not sure of his own followers, and anarchy pervades the empire. The littoral towns are tranquil because of the presence of foreign warships, but Rabat is reported to be constantly menaced by tribesmen, who are ready to swoop down upon it at the first opportunity. Europeans dare not pass outside the walls of Rabat and other cities.

Premier Clemenceau, who arrived from Carlsbad, has assumed direction of the Moroccan situation, which developed during his absence. He conferred with Foreign Minister Pichon, War Minister Picquart and Minister of Marine Thomson, who met him at the station, and will go to Rambouillet to see President Fallieres.

Spain's Attitude.

Madrid, Aug. 26.—At a lengthy cabinet meeting concerning the Moroccan situation, it was decided that the Spanish government should continue its policy of a strict observance of the Algeciras convention unless the proclamation naming Mulai Hafid as sultan be officially confirmed, in which case it will favor the sending out to the powers of a Franco-Spanish note clearly defining the situation and stating the course of action it is purposed to follow. The Algeciras pact, it is said, could be considered to be virtually broken as a result of the impossibility of coming to an understanding with one of the signatories, namely, the Sultan of Morocco.

LIBERALS

To Conduct a Vigorous Campaign Against the House of Lords.

London, Aug. 26.—Of the many measures promised in the king's speech at the opening of the present session of parliament, which will be prorogued next week, but few have reached the statute books. Like the educational bill and the plural voting bill, the most prominent measures of the last session, and which were thrown out by the house of lords, the Irish council bill, which was to have been the most important piece of legislation at this session, met with early defeat, but in a different way. The educational and plural voting bills gave the Liberals an opening for a campaign against the house of lords, which is to be carried on vigorously during the recess. A licensing bill, the object of which was to diminish the evils of drink, another question on which the two houses promised to clash, was put off on account of the pressure of work. The Irish universities bill, which also was catalogued with the king's speech, was not introduced. Among the bills which came up was the Irish evicted tenants bill, which the house of lords so radically amended that there is little likelihood of the house of common finally accepting it in its altered condition.

TWO-CENT FARE

Emergency Rate May Be Ordered by the Kansas Commission.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 26.—It may not be necessary for the state board of railroad commissioners to take much time before ordering in an emergency passenger rate of 2 cents per mile. George W. Kanavel, chairman of the board, said that he believed that it would not be necessary for the board to have a hearing at all. He thinks that all that would be necessary would be for the members to meet and decide on the advisability of declaring an emergency and putting the 2-cent rate into effect at once and ordering the railroads to charge not more than 2 cents per mile for hauling passengers. If this position is right, Kansas may have a 2-cent rate within a few days.

Claim Firing Unprovoked.

Tokyo, Aug. 26.—It is reported that the investigation made on the part of Japan concerning the Pribyloff incident of June 19 show that the Japanese fishers offered no resistance whatever and that the firing by the American guards was unprovoked. The Washington government has been notified to that effect and Tokyo is now awaiting a reply. The public is watching the affair with keen interest.

THE DIET DRILL.

Ancient Method of Making Brave Soldiers In China.

In robes of pale silk, delicate and cool, a fat young Chinese diplomat amused a half dozen pretty girls at a Bar Harbor tea.

"And," he was saying, "we find it hard to abolish the ancient diet drills of our soldiers. They still believe, you know, that it is food rather than work and study which makes the successful warrior.

"Our old laws bid the soldier on the thirteenth day before going into battle to eat tiger jelly, so as to possess the tiger's ferocity. On the twelfth day they tell him to eat lion liver in order to acquire the lion's bravery. For the eleventh day the ancient writings advise serpent soup, which will give the man the serpent's cunning; on the tenth day, chameleon custard, so that he may dazzle and confound the enemy by changing color like the chameleon; on the ninth day, a broth of crocodile that he may pursue the enemy in the water no less cleverly than on land.

"Next, jaguar spleen, which will give him the jaguar's fierce and rapid onslaught; next, kites' heads, for the eyesight; then hippopotamus brains, to toughen the skin against wounds; then roast monkey, for nimbleness in scaling the enemy's walls; then stewed scorpions, a dish that makes the eater capable of inflicting venomous wounds; then underdone venomous breast, so that the soldier may be cruel and pitiless. And finally on the day of battle the man is ordered to eat a red powder made of the desiccated blood of the leopard, so that he may tear the foe to pieces as the leopard tears his prey."

The young diplomat laughed.

"We have still," he said, "hundreds of mandarins and thousands of soldiers who think that this diet system makes better warriors than all the modern drilling and gunnery and science in the world."—Exchange.

Three Giant Locomotives.

Three locomotives, now building for the Erie railroad at the Schenectady works of the American Locomotive company, will be the heaviest and most powerful engines of their kind ever constructed.

Each locomotive alone, without its tender, will weigh 205 tons, and will haul on the level 320 loaded freight cars, or a train two miles long.

These enormous machines are of the type known as Mallet compound, and will have sixteen drive wheels, arranged in two independent groups of eight each. The boilers used are more than forty-three feet long, and the inside diameter of the largest firebox foundation ring is eight feet. It is provided with 404 tubes two and one-quarter inches in diameter and twenty-one feet long. The water in the boiler will weigh 42,700 pounds and the tubes 23,700 pounds. One of the fireboxes would make a good sized living room, being ten and one-half feet long and nine and one-half feet wide inside, and having a grate area of 100 square feet.—New York Herald.

The Tattered Flags.

There is a curious reason for the order which the kaiser has just issued to the effect that the colors of regiments are to be taken from their cases only on the most important occasions. The flags of the German army are in a deplorable condition, even the new ones, for the colonels of regiments which have had new colors given them of late years to replace the old ones which went through the Franco-Prussian war hated parading with brand new colors, as if the regiment had never been in action. They winked at the subalterns, who slit the new flags and gave them the dilapidated air of the old colors. But the emperor was furious at this imitation, and so he has had the sham glories put back into the cases.

New Method Mirrors.

Copper very closely resembles silver in many respects, but hitherto no method has been known of depositing it from aqueous solutions on glass so as to form mirrors like those so long made with silver. This is now accomplished by reducing cupric oxide by an aqueous solution of phenyl hydrazine in presence of potassium hydroxide. Some mirrors made in this way have been shown to the London Royal society by Dr. F. D. Chattaway and have a coherent metallic film as brilliant and uniform as that of the silver on glass reflectors used in telescopes and much more beautiful on account of the color.

Accidents on Warships.

Occasional accidents are as much to be looked for on a warship as in an industrial plant. If the officers and crew are to be fit for service in time of war they must practice with the big guns. They must engage in work where momentary carelessness and the neglect of some seemingly trivial precaution may mean sudden death or permanent disablement. On a battle ship, as in an iron or a powder mill, eternal vigilance is the price of safety, and in spite of the utmost vigilance deplorable casualties may happen.—Chicago Tribune.

A Sailor and His Grog.

At present every British sailor is allowed an eighth of a pint of rum per day, or, if he likes to go without grog, he gets nine-sixteenths of a penny. Total abstainers in future will get 1 penny.—London Saturday Review.

EXAMINATION OF THE CANAL

To Be Made by Members of the Appropriations Committee.

GO TO ISTHMUS IN NOVEMBER

Proposed Visit the Outcome of a Suggestion From Representative Tawney—Next Congress May Authorize the Work to Proceed Regardless of Appropriations.

Washington, Aug. 26.—Members of the next congress who will have in charge the preparation of the sundry civil bill, in which the appropriation for the Panama canal is incorporated, will go to the isthmus the coming fall to examine the estimates for the appropriation for continuing work on the canal. The proposed visit is the outcome of a suggestion from Representative J. A. Tawney of Minnesota, chairman of the appropriations committee in the last congress, who was at the isthmus following adjournment last March. The suggestion has met with a hearty response from those identified with the commission's work, who believe that a great deal of good will result from a heart-to-heart talk between the congressmen who prepared the appropriation and the officials who spend it, and that it will clear the way in advance for any misapprehensions or misunderstandings that may exist as to the justness and propriety of allotting the money estimated to be necessary for the year's work.

Of particular importance is the proposed visit regarded at the present time, when the question is now before the president whether the commission can lawfully expend during the present fiscal year any more money than was specifically appropriated, Colonel Goethals having reported to the authorities in Washington that the work has progressed so rapidly that it will be in the interest of true economy to exceed that amount to the extent of $8,000,000, and by reason of which he thinks a year's time will be saved in the completion of the great waterway. Officials here think congress may, as a result of the observations of the members of the appropriations committee who go to the isthmus, see fit to provide legislation under which work may proceed regardless of the appropriations, if this authority does not already exist. The committee will leave New York Nov. 5 and return to Washington in time for the opening of congress in December.

CHOATE'S PLAN

For Allotment of Judges For the International High Court.

The Hague, Aug. 26.—Joseph H. Choate is working on a new plan for the allotment of judges for the international high court of justice, under which the representatives of the United States and those of all the Latin-American countries will form one group. This plan, it is believed, will dissipate any feeling arising from the previous proposed allotment over the lack of equality of any state in the representation of the court. This union of the whole of the American continent, it is considered, would be of great importance not only in the establishment of the court, but as a great political move, rallying around the United States, as it would, all the states of Central and South America.

HATPIN

Weapon of a Young Woman Who Routs a Ruffian.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—A hand-to-hand battle, in which an 18-year-old girl fought off a man who attacked her, took place on a lonely bit of railroad track between Indiana Harbor and Clarke, Ind. The heroine of the occasion was Miss Grace Stults, daughter of P. M. Stults, general superintendent of the Illinois Steel company yards at South Chicago. The villain was a heavy-browed, bewhiskered individual. When attacked the girl brought her hatpin into play, stabbing her assailant in the face and stomach. The man slipped and, striking his head against the rail, was stunned. Realizing her advantage, the girl knelt on his chest and, seizing the man by the throat, repeatedly bumped his head on the steel rail. He became unconscious and she fled down the track.

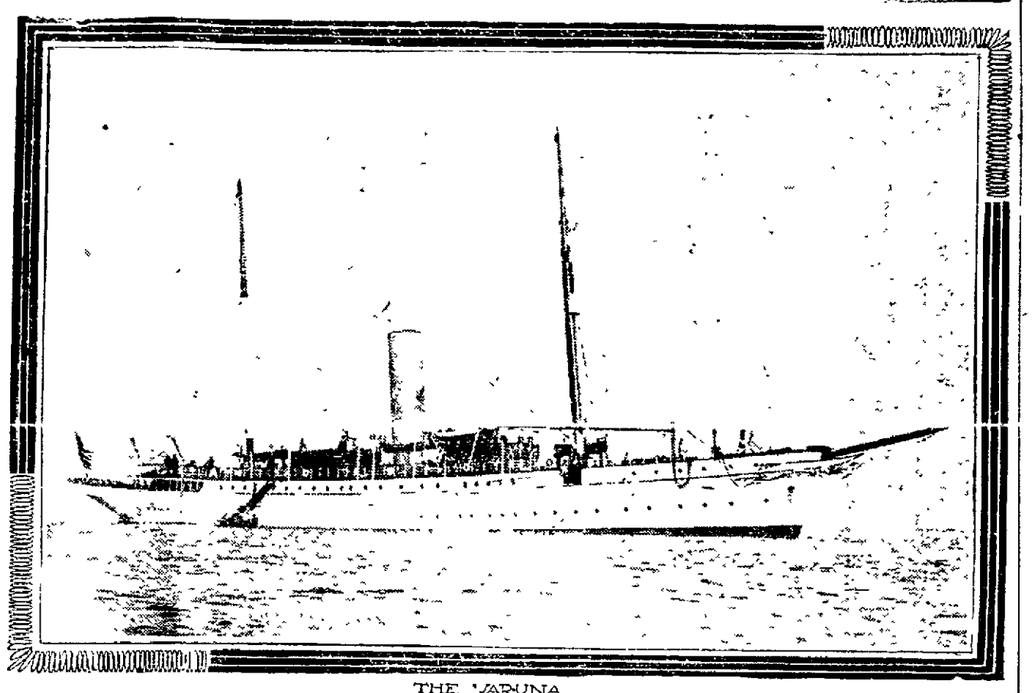
Embezzlement Charge.

Kansas City, Aug. 26.—W. A. Farren, alias M. S. Adams, former cashier of the Farmers' bank of Clearfield, Ia., was arrested here on the charge of embezzling the school funds of Taylor, Ia., on deposit in the bank, causing the institution to fail. The bank closed its doors June 26, 1906, six months after Farren had given up the position as cashier. The bank failed for more than $33,000, and Farren disappeared. Under the name of Adams, Farren has been working here as the janitor of a large office building, having come here soon after he left Iowa.

Auto Shoots Over Embankment.

Chattanooga Tenn., Aug. 26.—Benjamin Franklin Rees, 48, one of the most prominent club men and capitalists of Chattanooga, and a son of Hans Rees, the pioneer of the leather industry in New York, was instantly killed in an automobile accident. William Love was seriously injured and W. E. Headrick, a traveling representative of a New York firm, was injured. The car shot over a 50-foot embankment. Mr Rees was caught under the car, his neck and back being broken.

SPEED THE VARUNA TO PORT DESPITE FOG.



THE VARUNA

New York, August 27.—With but one pleasant day recorded in her log and at one time during her voyage from Southampton hove to in a westerly gale, the Varuna arrived at Quarantine. Captain Traylor, in command of the Varuna, which finished her twelfth trip across the North Atlantic, said it was one of the stormiest passages he had ever made and that for days he had run on dead reckoning only, having been unable because of fog and overcast sky to take an observation.

BASEBALL GOSSIP.

sale of Gessler to the Boston Americans was announced Saturday night, though the deal was completed some time ago.

The Steubenville P. O. M. league team has booked a long post-season series of exhibition games. Zanesville claims to have booked Youngstown and Newark of the O. and P., Wheeling of the Central and other league teams.

Mansfield has reserved all her present list of players. Duckey Drake may prove a valuable asset to the Tigers. His hitting has been a little short of sensational all season. Two triples and a double was his record yesterday.

Excepting Steen and Limerick, New Castle has reserved all the men. Steen belongs to the Toledo club and Limerick to the Rochester club.

Konetchey of St. Louis who was almost a Molder once, is hitting like a house afire for his club. Five doubles and four triples and one home run is his record in his short career in fast company.

Columbus has lost four out of fifteen games on the road this trip. That will pretty nearly stand as a record. They are now but 23 points behind Toledo in first place. A continuation of the good luck will see the Champs at home in first place.

Bunny Pearce was again put out of commission in the first game Sunday, by a foul tip off Hagan's bat. The husky catcher of the Newark team was down and out for five minutes across the home plate before he revived enough to be helped off the field. He recovered sufficiently to get out on the coaching line in the second game. Scottie Winters took his place at the receiving end and caught a good game.

The Molders are playing in Lanktown today and tomorow, and left early in the morning with the firm determination to bag both games.

Newark had the bases full in the third, but Steen, like General Grant, wouldn't give up, and the next three men went down in order. Abbott flied out to first and Snyder and Wratten struck out.

Smith was in the game strong in the fourth and made one of the most sensational one-handed stops ever seen on the local diamond. Running at top speed over third he stuck out his right hand, staggered, but held the ball.

Wratten, not to be outdone by Smith, helped to save the game in the twelfth by pulling down a hot liner from Hagan's bat. Rats has had to bow two or three times to the crowd this season, and he had to doff his cap a couple of times to satisfy them when he walked in from the diamond after his catch.

"They don't play much better ball than that in the big leagues", said a traveling man after seeing the games Sunday. "The Newark team ought to take that pennant for they play mighty fine inside ball."

George Huff was registered at the Warden Hotel last week, and it is said that he watched the Newark team for several days. It is believed that he is the Boston American's scout as they have a scout out by that name and though he did not make himself known to any of the local officials, it is a certainty that he was here.

Three autos loaded with fans went to Lancaster at noon today to see the game with the Lanks. Mr Harrington of East Newark had two machines and Mr. David Taylor had the other machine.

Thomas Rutledge, member of the schedule committee went to Cincinnati on professional business Monday morning. Business Manager Frank T Maurath instructed Mr. Rutledge to purchase a breast protector similar in style to those used in the National league. Bunny Pearce has twice been injured because of poor protectors, and the club does not propose to have it occur again.

Arrangements have been made to clean and repair the uniforms Friday of this week when the team has an open date.

New York, Aug. 26—The Lyric theater has opened with "The Lady from Lane's," a new musical comedy

MISS TRULY SHATTUCK

Mr. Thomas Wise was the star of the piece. Miss Truly Shattuck was general assistant to Mr Wise. The plot was of sufficient tackiness to keep a lot of not particularly pretty chorus girls in action and allowed Mr Wise to appear frequently in his favorite role of the overfond fat person in fear of a fair woman. The comedy is staged with discretion but cast horribly.

SECORD AGAIN GETS INTO TROUBLE

Fred Secord, who has appeared in police annals several times, was released from the county jail Sunday, after serving several months for petit larceny, after Officer Calian had chased him several blocks and fired two shots at him.

Secord, shortly after dinner strolled into the hardware store of the Crane, Bliss Co., and reaching over the show case, annexed a couple of revolvers of the Ivel Johnson make, but before he could escape he was discovered and the police were notified.

Officer Swank was searching for him and located him on South Fifth street where he was arrested and the patrol wagon called.

Officer Dawson started the chase from the square and followed Secord several blocks past Fifth street.

If You Are Sick

It is because some of the organs of the body are not doing their work well. There is a lack of that nervous energy that gives them motion. Consequently you are weak, worn-out, nervous, irritable, cannot sleep; have headache, indigestion, etc. because there is not sufficient nerve force to keep the organs active and allow them to perform their natural functions. Dr. Miles' Nervine restores health because it restores this nervous energy.

"I have been sick for a year, and did not know what was the matter with me. I tried many remedies and none of them proved of any value. I heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine. I procured a bottle, and before I had taken half of it I was better. I would have had nervous prostration if I had not got this medicine when I did. I continued to take it until I was entirely well. I have since recommended it to five of my lady friends, and they have all thanked me for doing so, for it benefited them all."

Toledo, O., Aug. 26. — Fire of unknown origin, which started in the upper story of the Moreton truck and storage building, a four-story brick building at 232-236 Huron street, caused a loss estimated at about $150,000 to $200,000. The building was occupied by the International Harvester company, a restaurant and other small concerns. The fire made rapid progress. The buildings occupied by the Toledo club and the newspaper offices of the News-Bee and the Times were filled with smoke and threatened with destruction. REELHORN CASE HEARD TUESDAY AT KIRKERSVILLE

The hearing of young Dr. Reelhorn, the Kirkersville dentist, who was recently arrested on the charge of causing the death of Miss Minnie Gunder, a pretty youn gwoman of that village, last December, takes place at the home of 'Squire Abram Miller, Tuesday afternoon, August 27. 'Squire Miller's home is west of Kirkersville.

The village is greatly agitated over the developments that are anticipated and there is much speculation as to what may occur. The coroner found that the girl came to her death by taking oil of tansy and Dr. Reelnorn testified that he had purchased the drug in Newark at her request for a face lotion. The report of the physicians who conducted the autopsy quieted the ugly rumors in circulation as the doctors pronounced that Miss Gunder's physical condition did not warrant the use of the drug.

PROF. NUSBAUM WILL RETURN IN A SHORT TIME

It was learned Monday that the local postoffice authorities had received word from Prof. W. W. Nusbaum from Hutchison, Kansas, to hold all his mail at the local office, as he will arrive in the city in a few days.

This effectually disproves the rumor which was current a few days ago that Mr. Nusbaum had died in Kansas. Several efforts were made by the Advocate to get information from Kansas that would stop the reports but the telegraph strike effectually interfered. No answer was received to messages sent last Wednesday and Saturday.

Mr. Nusbaum's many friends in the city will be glad to learn that he is very much alive and that he will soon return to the city. Just how the rumor started is not known.

MESSAGE WAS SLOW

Fourteen Hours Passed Before the Mother Learned of Death of Boy in Newark.

Owing to the telegraphers' strike, Mrs. Samuel Hull, 520 Hamilton avenue, Columbus, did not learn of the accidental death of her son, Arthur in Newark, until 14 hours after the Pan Handle freight train hit the crane car east of Heisey's. Mrs. Hull was finally reached at Mechanicsburg where she was visiting.

All day Saturday the distracted father and sisters sought to reach the mother by wire. The distance is comparatively short from Columbus—about 36 miles —but it took them almost 14 hours to locate her and acquaint her of her boy's death. They tried telegraphing, but the Western Union could not get the message through. Then, during many hours of suspense, they awaited for the telephone company to locate her. The mother reached Columbus late Saturday night. The body was taken from Newark to Columbus Saturday and the funeral took place Monday, burial being made at Green Lawn cemetery.

THE ONION IS CROWNED AS KING

Indiana Growers Hold a Big Celebration and Rejoice Over Their Splendid Crop.

Warsaw, Ind., Aug. 26.—Other crops may wither and fail, but the luscious, fragrant onion continues to hold its kingly sway in Indiana. It had its day of glory Saturday at Wolf Lake, where 5,000 people gathered to pay homage to the vegetable which is the principal crop raised by the farmers of Wolfe and the vicinity. Three Indiana congressmen, C. C. Gilhams, Jas. Watson and J. A. Adair, sung its praises and declared the onion monarch of the farm and garden.

Races and many other attractions filled in the day, and at night there was a big fireworks display. These big doings were all because the onion crop this year is fully up to the expectations of the growers.

The Mere Money Value of Business Education

The average business man earns $1,200 a year. He works forty years, making a total of $48,000 in a life time. The average day laborer gets $1.50 a day, 300 days in a year, or $450. a year. He earns $18,000 in a life time. The difference between $48,000 and $18,000 is $30,000. This is the minimum value of business education in dollars and cents. The better future, better work, better hours, and increased self-respect you gain cannot be measured in money.
